

On new page 14 following the claims, please insert the following:

DETERMINING USABILITY OF A CODED FILE FOR AN APPLICATION

Abstract of the Disclosure

An electronic device for determining usability of a coded file in an application includes at least one file matching unit associated with an application, which receives at least one property of a code file, matches the property against the application, generates an indication indicating if the file can be used in the application or not based on the matching, and associates the indication with the coded file for later enabling a decision about use of the file in the application.